

Introduction to ADI (Advanced Driving Instructors)

Looking for the opportunity to be your own boss and choose your own working hours? Do you want to meet new people each day and work in a comfortable, interactive environment, with professional support and guidance in your career? ADI qualified driving instructors enjoy all these benefits and many more.

Benefiting from our experience as the market leader, certified driving instructors come from a wide variety of different career backgrounds. Seeking a new career direction, our driving instructor trainees include former teachers, factory workers, legal staff, trainers and lecturers. Many were previously involved in driving, such as racing drivers, taxi and chauffeur drivers, heavy goods vehicle (HGV) drivers and mechanics.

Most are simply looking for a fresh challenge and an interesting new career direction, with the freedom to be your own boss, work your own hours and get out on the road meeting new people. As an ADI qualified driving instructor, you will have the reward of excellent earning potential, flexible working hours, allowing you to spend more time with your family as needed, and the invaluable feeling of job satisfaction every time one of your students passes their driving test.

ADI Instructor Training

Whether you're new to driving instruction or you've already had some prior training, you'll want to make sure you're getting professional expert tuition and great value for money. If you are thinking of training to be a driving instructor, start by checking the requirements to make sure you are eligible. However, before you contact us please make sure you can meet the minimum requirements as set out by the ADI.

You must have held a driving licence for at least two years before you start training and you must be able to pass a SAP check; have or be able to obtain a tax clearance certificate.

If you have any doubts about meeting these minimum requirements you can contact ADI for further advice.
